Couples Retreat Coming Up February 20th-21st Led by PREP's Dr. Howard Markman

On February 20, 21, 2010 Love Your Relationship (Part of the PREP family), is holding a Couples Retreat lead by PREP's, Dr. Howard Markman.

This is a great opportunity for you to experience the newest updates to PREP, as well as the best of PREP from the inside out.

Also, please invite your clients, friends or family to join Howard in downtown Denver at a weekend of fun and learning. Participants focus on their relationship, each other and learn skills to have a happy, healthy relationship.

Couples will be treated to a luxurious, educational and romantic experience as they participate in a series of enjoyable activities that will benefit their relationship and help each person to do their part to be the best partner they can be. We like to tell couples that if you give us one weekend to work on your relationship, we will give you skills that will benefit you for a lifetime. Whether you are just starting out, dating or have been together 50 years, whether you are very happily married or struggling to find the love you lost, a Love Your Relationship retreat can help you accomplish your relationship goals.

Past participants have written in their evaluations: "Even though we know each other really well, I think we know each other even better now." "We learned so much...and we are finally starting to love each other again." "Benefits will last forever; it was a lot of fun! (See other comments and photos from past weekends at loveyourrelationship.com).

The retreat is open to couples at all ages and stages of their relationship (including pre-marital couples) who want to enhance or improve their lives together. The cost of the weekend is $799 for the program only and rooms are available at $109 at the Magnolia Hotel in downtown Denver.

However since you are a special friend to PREP, you or anyone you invite can attend the retreat for $799.00
